By KEITH FULLER

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus kept his legislators standing by today for a possible emergency session in the Central High School integration dispute.

"I intend to let the legislative session remain in effect the rest of today and tonight," he said, "before I make a decision whether to go ahead with a special session Monday."

Faubus yesterday alerted the Legislature for a possible emergency session after a federal appeals court last Monday upset district court plans for a 2½ year breathing spell in integration at Central.

Later yesterday, however, the same Eighth U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals granted a 30-day stay in its own order to integrate to give the Little Rock School Board time for a new appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court.

The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People said it will ask the high court at once to knock down this latest legal barrier against Negro students entering Central when it re-opens for the fall term Sept. 2.

The Supreme Court is in summer recess. Thus the NAACP's only hope for immediate action would be to contact one of the vacationing justices and seek an emergency order from him.

At least one Arkansas legislator was on record as favoring the special session.

Regardless of the stay, Rep. Carroll C. Hollenworth of Warren said:

"It now appears there may be ways to end this breathing spell without much notice. If that is true I think we should go ahead with the special session, possibly not as soon as Monday, but within the Continued on Page Three

Bids Taken on Tracking Station

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Five contractors submitted bids yesterday to build Arkansas' first satellite tracking station at Forrest City. Late additions to plans delayed naming the successful bidder.

Army Engineers said some clauses had been added to the plans and specifications on which the contractors figured their bids.

Amounts of the bids were not disclosed, but the order according to size was announced. Nabholz Construction Co. Inc., of Conway, was the apparent low bidder, followed in order by L & M Construction Co. of Memphis; H. C. Enterprises Inc. of Little Rock; O'Brien and Padgett of Memphis, and Dickman-Pickens-Bond Construction Co. of Little Rock.

Congress in Rushes Toward Adjournment

By PAUL DUKE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The home-stretch rush for adjournment was on in Congress today.

The Senate worked to clear its calendar of several prime items, including the 3½-billion-dollar foreign aid money bill.

The House, having taken care of most major matters, considered a six-billion-dollar appropriations measure to finance a score of government agencies.

President Eisenhower vetoed an earlier bill for these agencies because it contained half a billion dollars for the civil service retirement fund. He said the payment was unnecessary.

The target date for adjournment remained Saturday night. But first Congress must dispose of these major pieces of legislation, among others:

1. Foreign Aid — The House passed a bill calling for $3,978,000,000 in military and economic help to other nations this year. The Senate Appropriations Committee, taking up the measure after eruption of the Middle East crisis, boosted the amount to $3,518,002,500. But this still is 432 million dollars below the amount originally requested by the President.

2. Debt Ceiling — The administration, faced with mounting red ink spending, asked Congress to increase the federal debt limit — now temporarily 280 billion dollars — to 288 billions through June 30, 1960.

The House agreed to the request, but the Senate Finance Committee voted to allow the 288 Continued on Page Three

Denmark Bars U. S. Nuclear Submarine

COPENHAGEN (AP)—Denmark Thursday barred the U.S. atomic submarine Skate from visiting Copenhagen. The country's leading nuclear authorities expressed fear of radiation perils in case of a collision in the harbor.

But neighboring Norway promised an official welcome when the Skate docks Saturday at Bergen, her first port of call after a crossing under the north polar ice. The Skate will visit Oslo from Monday to Wednesday. Then it had planned to go on to Copenhagen.

A member of the Danish Atomic Energy Commission told The Associated Press the commission chairman, famed Dr. Niels Bohr, concurred in the decision to bar the Skate. The great nuclear physicist was a member of the brain trust behind the first U.S. atomic bomb.

A Norwegian naval source called the Danish decision utter nonsense. But the Norwegian health director, Karl Ewang, sent two health inspectors to try to contact the health officer of the Skate before it leaves the region.

Evening news in the region planned long before the Danish decision was taken. He added that Norway simply wants "to know as much as possible so as to be able to take our precautions."

The Norwegian Defense Ministry asked its research institute for an opinion on the possibility of danger. The institute's chief research officer said he had no information that would prompt the institute to advise against the Skate's visit.

Danish Premier Hans C. Hansen acted on the recommendation of his atomic advisers, who warned against "disastrous consequences" in the case of an accident involving the vessel.

One commission member, who refused to be named, said the advice was given Thursday by some of the top nuclear experts running Denmark's atom station at Risoe, 30 miles from Copenhagen.

Kofod Hansen, a leading technician at the Risoe atom station, said that, from a security point of view, it was "of no useful purpose" to place such a vessel virtually in the center of Copenhagen with its population of 1,200,000.

He added that the Skate could be expected to contain huge Continued on Page Three

Hope Girl Volunteer Worker

Miss Sue Willis

Miss Sue Willis, daughter of A. S. Willis, 308 East 2nd St., Hope, Arkansas, is home now after spending the summer in volunteer service at the Institute of Logopedics, Wichita, Kansas.

Miss Willis arrived at the Institute June 11, and remained until August 13. She will return to her duties as fourth grade elementary teacher at Odessa, Texas this fall.

She spent the greater part of her time in the Special Education Department classrooms assisting the teachers. This department consists of 24 classrooms where handicapped children enrolled at the Institute are taught academic subjects. While at the Institute, Miss Willis shared an apartment with three other volunteers.

"I was certainly impressed with the way everyone on the staff works together to do everything in their power to rehabilitate a child. It's such a friendly place, too. There is none of that feeling of living in an institution. Each child is an individual and is treated as such. They are helped in so many ways not only with their handicap, but they're helped to grow and mature so they may, one day, take their rightful place in society."

The Institute, founded and directed by Dr. Martin F. Palmer, occupies a 40-acre campus not far from the University of Wichita, with which it is affiliated. There are approximately 450 children now in training, with some 70 of them in residence.

John Rogers of Tulsa, chairman of the Oklahoma State regents of higher education, was named head of the Oklahoma advisory committee.

Former Gov. John Summis Jr. of Albuquerque is chairman of the New Mexico Committee and Prof. Robert A. Lellor of the University of Arkansas Law School, heads the Arkansas Committee.

Tiffany said committees now have been set up in 10 states to work with the federal commission, and others will be organized soon.

Clague said the board establishes its prices to some extent in different cities than the government. He added that the NIOB food barometer dropped in July from a figure which was actually higher than the government's for June.

Living Cost Goes Up to a Record High

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today the cost of living in July set another record high. Its consumer price index rose two-tenths of 1 per cent to 123.0.

The 1947-49 average is 100 in the index.

Advances in transportation, food and medical care costs were chiefly responsible for the July rise.

The index has gone up in 21 of the last 23 months. There has been no decline since August 1956.

Evan Clague, commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics predicted little change in the general cost of living for the next several months.

He said food prices will continue down but the advent of fall clothing and new model automobiles, both expected to cost more, will have the effect of offsetting a drop in food prices.

Clague attributed two-thirds of the June-July increase to transportation prices. The net advance in this field was 1 per cent.

Gasoline prices jumped 2.2 per cent as price wars ended in several localities. Used cars went up 2.9 per cent while there was no change in the average for new cars.

Food prices increased one-tenth of 1 per cent. Higher prices for pork, eggs and milk more than offset reductions for fresh fruits and vegetables.

The fund index by itself for July was 121.7 per cent of the 1947-49 base, or 3.7 per cent higher than in July, 1957.

The complete index of consumer costs, at 123.0 was 2.6 per cent higher than in July a year ago.

Clague said the living cost increase means about one cent an hour raise in pay for about 500,000 workers in the aircraft and electrical equipment industries. A small group of metal working and trucking employees are due increases of 2 to 4 cents an hour.

The take-home pay and buying power of factory workers moved upward largely because of an increase in hourly earnings.

Clague said that spendable earnings ordinarily decline in July, reflecting a seasonal decrease in the number of hours worked. There was no such decline this July, he said.

Buying power was still lower than a year ago, but the difference of slightly over 1 per cent was less than for the past 10 months.

The government's index differed from that of the National Industrial Conference Board, which Thursday figured an overall July decrease in the cost of living of one-tenth of 1 per cent for food alone.

Man Poisoned, Wife Arrested

FORT SMITH, Ark. (AP)—A 42-year-old woman was arrested yesterday in connection with the death of her husband after authorities said he died of arsenic poisoning.

Mrs. Francine Ferguson of Fort Smith was jailed on an open charge.

Police Chief Herbert Brock said pathologists had told him the woman's husband, John Allen Ferguson, 45, died as a result of arsenic poisoning. He was found dead Aug. 11 at their home. State pathologists performed an autopsy.

U. S. Agrees to Halt Nuclear Tests a Year

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower will make an announcement on halting of nuclear weapons tests at 1 p.m. EST today.

Indications were he would declare a one-year suspension.

James C. Hagerly, White House press secretary, said the President's statement would be in relation to the technical talks in Geneva that have just been concluded.

That was a reference to the East-West discussion on how to police any nuclear test ban.

Hagerly declined to go beyond his statement. It came, however, against a background of reports in the past two days that the United States is ready to suspend its nuclear weapons tests for at least one year starting this fall.

The U.S. hope is that a trial one-year ban will pave the way for an international agreement on a permanent ban, with adequate safeguards.

Hagerly told photographers that Eisenhower would read his statement later in the day for use on television and radio. No specific times were given.

Before Hagerly's announcement other officials said that the United States will insist on these points:

The White House said Great Britain also stands ready to join in a one-year suspension of weapons tests under the same conditions specified by the United States.

Eisenhower stressed in a statement that the United States is not proposing that nuclear tests for peaceful purposes be halted.

Referring to technical talks on policing a ban, concluded at Geneva this week, Eisenhower said: "The United States, taking account of the Geneva conclusions, is prepared to proceed promptly to negotiate an agreement with other nations which have tested nuclear weapons for the suspension of nuclear weapons tests and the actual establishment of an international controls system on the basis of the experts' report."

"If this is accepted in principle by the other nations which have tested nuclear weapons, then in order to facilitate the detailed negotiations, the United States is prepared, unless testing is resumed by the Soviet Union, to withhold further testing on its part of atomic and hydrogen weapons for a period of one year from the Continued on Page Three next 10 days." The Little Rock School Board went ahead on the assumption that Central will be an all-white school which classes resume a week from next Tuesday.

Registration began today for Central's 2,000 students. The NAACP here said the seven remaining Negroes who attended Central last year will try to register when they return from a northern vacation.

However, school authorities said no Negroes will be accepted for registration at Central as long as the court stay is in effect.

Thurgood Marshall, attorney for the NAACP, said he would ask the Supreme Court to set aside the stay granted by the appeals court Thursday. If this action should be successful the way would be clear for Negroes to re-enter the school on opening day.

Faubus refused to back down immediately on his standby call for legislators to be ready for a session Monday when he heard that the 8th Circuit Court of Appeals at St. Louis had stayed its own decision that integration must proceed.

The governor said he wanted to be assured that the school board would take the opportunity afforded it to avoid integration and that the stay which would hold Negro students out of school until the Supreme Court acted would remain in effect.

The Circuit Court ruled Monday that Little Rock could not have the 2½-year delay in integration given it by U.S. Dist. Judge Harry Lemley of Hope, Ark. But Thursday it said in effect that the Lemley decision granting the delay could remain in force until the Supreme court decided the matter. That is provided the Little Rock school board filed its appeal to the high court within 30 days.

The school board halted the stay order as "wonderful news" and Supl. Virgil Blossom confidently announced that Central High would open Sept. 2 as an all-white high school.

Later he amended his flat statement to say Central would be all white if the stay order remains in effect.

Gov. Faubus hinted that the state would close Central High should the federal government force integration a second year.

At a press conference, he said one possible measure his administration would submit to the lawmakers involved troops, and that closing the school in the event of forced integration was being considered also.

DOROTHY DIX

Hidden Bottles Reveal
This Husband's Secret

Dear Dorothy Dix:

A situation has arisen in my married life which is causing me much worry and misery. I was told before being married that my husband was an alcoholic. But since I had never seen evidence of it, I didn't believe what I was told. I have still never seen him drunk but I find empty bottles all over the house in the most unexpected places — as many as three or four a week. He says he takes a drink now and then but I'd like him to stop. How can I persuade him without nagging? He is too good a man to have a nagging wife. —Estelle H.

Dear Estelle: You have something to worry about, but there is plenty of help waiting for you. Your husband is a fine man — with a weakness. Talk to him about it. Proper discussion on a vital matter can't be mistaken for nagging. I'm sure he doesn't want to be an alcoholic, and when he is presented with a reasonable approach to the problem he'll be as anxious to effect a change as you are to see him do it. The information center of the National Committee on Alcoholism will offer help, as will any local office of Alcoholics Anonymous. The sooner you get busy on the problem the better, and the best of luck to you. My leaflet on "Alcoholism" which is available for a self-addressed, stamped envelope will also be of help.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I met Margie two months ago when I entered a hospital for treatment of a minor ailment. She is a student nurse there and graduates in two years. I'm deeply in love with her and know she feels the same about me. The difficulty that arises is one of age difference. I'm 32 and she's 20 — Willing But Wary.

Dear Sir: Age differences are unimportant if everything else is all right. Your letter, however, has overtones of reluctance to cast yourself in the role of "husband."

I think you're using this age disparity as a red herring to cover up a general aversion to responsibility and are hoping that I'll back you up. Margie seems to be much more in love than you are. On this basis I certainly recommend that you break up — but please give the girl a good reason.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

Some time ago I unfortunately became involved with a married man in our office. When the affair became really torrid he began to change, and pointed out that a romance such as ours meant much more to a woman than it did to a man. To him it was just a casual affair; to me it was vitally important. However, I got over it. No he feels that I should continue being friendly with him at the office so people won't talk. I never speak to him except on company business. That's how I want it and I think his request is unreasonable. —Olivia J.

Dear Olivia: The man evidently has you staked as an easy mark. What he wants is your continued friendship, your availability as a date — at his convenience — and your willingness to fade into the background during the intervals when he's tired of you or has someone else. You've learned your lesson and have sense enough not to fall for his obvious tactics. Stick to your guns; real, strictly business is the rule from now on.

Dear Dorothy Dix:

I'm going with one boy and like another. Judy, the boy I like, was my steady once, but he cheated on me so often that I broke off with him. I've never stopped liking him, but now I'm going with this very nice boy, but my heart isn't in it. If I could get Judy back, do you think he would still cheat on me? —Babs

Dear Babs: You can bet your bottom dollar that if you go after him, and the conditions are taken back, he'll go right on cheating. Let him stay put on your list, and let your future with more reliable boys.

Labor Reform Is Now Big Vote Issue

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor reform—and what Congress failed to do about it—is now a full-blown campaign issue in the 1958 congressional elections.

Democrats and Republicans will blame each other for what didn't come to pass. But the fact is neither side looks pretty in this one.

President Eisenhower has already rushed to the defense of his Republicans with a statement Wednesday. This is how it started and ended:

Last January Eisenhower proposed—as a result of disclosures by the Senate Rackets Committee—a 12-point labor reform program.

The Democratic-run Senate on June 17 passed its own bill which fell short of all Eisenhower wanted. It was sponsored by Senators Irving M. Ives (R-NY) and John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.).

Republicans and Democrats teamed up to shove it through 88-1.

This bill sought to throttle racketeering by both unions and employers. It would have required detailed reports on union affairs and funds, along with reports by employers on how much money they spent on labor relations activities.

Further, it would have barred convicted crooks from holding union office, required secret ballot union elections for limited terms, and let union members sue to recover stolen union funds or property. And it would have made management representatives take a non-Communist oath, just as union leaders have to do.

Then the bill went over to the Democratic-run House. There the leader of the House Democrats, Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas, bottled it up 41 days by keeping it on his desk. He finally sent it to the House Labor Committee for consideration July 29. Why the delay?

He explained: He didn't want to get it tangled with another piece of labor legislation the Labor Committee was considering.

But the House Labor Committee is run by Democrats. They didn't want any part of the Ives-Kennedy bill. In fact 16 of them, joined by six Republicans, voted against even considering the bill. The committee also voted against considering a Republican-backed substitute.

Finally, the bill was yanked out of the committee's hands and thrown before the full House for action. Under the special procedure used, the bill couldn't be amended. It also required a two-thirds vote for passage.

But then the Republicans got in their kicks. They closed ranks to kill the bill on the floor. A big majority of them, joined by some Democrats, voted to kill the bill. It was killed.

Yet a big majority of Democrats on the floor voted for the bill as a switch for their own party since an overwhelming number of Democrats in the Labor Committee had voted against ever letting the bill see the light of day.

Sen. Ives was incensed at what happened in the House. He said he was ashamed of it. But he also said: "A lot of House members were misled by false propaganda by the National Assn. of Manufacturers, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, the American Retail Federation, the Teamsters, and the United Mine Workers. Can you imagine a more unholy alliance?"

Kennedy also struck out at the N.A.M. That organization's president, Milton C. Lightner, said it was true his organization had opposed the bill but he denied N.A.M. pressure killed it.

So everything was confused but warming up for a who-struck-John fight in the campaign when Eisenhower issued a statement Wednesday. He was highly critical of the Ives-Kennedy bill—although

Paralytic Polio Cases Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—Paralytic polio cases increased again last week, the Public Health Service reported today.

Out of the 233 polio cases reported by the states, 114 were paralytic.

This compared with a revised report of 89 paralytic cases out of the 190 polio cases in the week ended Aug. 9. The figures for the comparable week last year were 214 cases with 81 paralytic.

For several weeks now the number of reported paralytic cases has not only increased but has exceeded those in the comparable 1947 weeks.

From Jan. 1 through last Saturday there had been 301 paralytic cases among the 1,034 reported. A year ago the totals were 1,000 paralytic out of 2,912 cases.

Burdette Hurls Like His Mind Is on the Series

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Yep, it's almost Fall and World Series time. There's the smell of burning leaves. There's the football practice. And there's Lew Burdette, nitching the big shutout again.

It's been a long summer for the big right-hander who pitched the Milwaukee Braves to the world championship last October. At the All-Star Game in July he had only a 6-7 record. Those winter victories and two shutouts over the New York Yankees in the Series were as much to blame as anything.

But since the All-Star break he's won 8 of 10. He beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-0 Thursday night with a four-hitter.

It was only his second shutout of the season. He didn't walk a man, struck out five and didn't allow a base runner after Gil Hodges, who had two of the Dodgers' hits, singled with two out in the fourth inning.

Burdette also hit his third home run of the season—all at the Coliseum—as the Braves regained a 6½-game lead in the National League race after losing three in a row to the Dodgers.

Cincinnati broke loose for an 8-1 victory over second-place San Francisco, and the Chicago Cubs, with Ernie Banks hitting his 30th and 40th home runs, beat third-place Pittsburgh 5-3. St. Louis plunked Philadelphia back into the cellar 2-1.

In the American League, the New York Yankees ended Chicago's winning streak at seven, beating the White Sox 6-3 as Bob Turley won his 18th. Boston defeated Cleveland 8-6, Baltimore spoiled Detroit 7-6 and Kansas City rapped Washington 7-1.

Hank Aaron's 27th home run opened a four-run fourth for the Braves against losing southpaw Sandy Koufax (9-7). Duke Snider's error, Andy Pafko's error and Burdette's homer wrapped it up.

Don Newcombe, who has lost 11, picked up his third victory for Cincinnati with a six-hitter. Leon Wagner had half the Giants' hits, one his eighth home run in the second inning. The Reds scored four in the first inning, capped by Alex Grammas' three-run, two-out double, as Mike McCormick lost his sixth.

Banks drove in all the Cubs' runs. His 39th home came with two on in the third inning off loser Ben Law (8-11) and he added an RBI double of the Cubs' right-hander in the fifth. His 40th homer was a solo shot in the eighth. Moe Drabowsky won his ninth with a three-hitter.

Larry Jackson won his 10th for the Cardinals, blanking the Phils on five hits for seven innings and then giving up five hits in the last two frames. He lost his shutout on three singles, the last by pinch-hitter Dave Philley, in the eighth, then got Wally Post on a grounder for the final out of the game with the tying run on third.

Trapshooting Meet Starts at Vandalia

Associated Press Sports Writer

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP)—Trapshooting championship, and probably the most unexcitable event in sports—is the Grand American Handicap—is the only event of more than 2,000 of the nation's elite trapshooters.

The 100-trap event guarantees a $1,500 purse to the victor, but his winnings can soar to around $7,000 under the unique national system in which the shooters wager on their own prowess.

C. R. Crawford of Maywood, Ill., the 1957 victor, will defend his crown. Never since the event was started in 1900 has anyone been able to win it twice.

The marksmen are handicapped from 18 to 27 yards behind the trap, based on their known ability and those far back have little chance to triumph.

Thursday's preliminary handicap, fired over exactly the same route as today's classic, went to 17-year-old Tom Eric of Highland Park, Ill., a mathematics major and freshman at Northwestern University. The youngster broke 99 of 100 from 20 yards to outshoot a field of 1,910.

Ernie won about $2,500, but passed up several thousand dollars more by not playing the odds.

Eight shooters tied for second at 98 of 100, and in a shootoff, Hugh Adair II of Helena, Mont., captured the $500 runner-up prize and Lon Hammock of Knoxville, Tenn., took the third-place $300.

They are now operating a complete paint and body repair shop.

Cowboys Can Be Dull in a Drawing Room

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

Girls who go to dude ranches in search of romance should bear in mind that those picturesque cowboys can be deadly dull in a drawing room.

"Man killers are seldom lady killers," says Dick O'Connor, author of a biography of Bat Masterson, one of the most famous gunfighters of the Old West, whose exploits form the basis of a new television series to be aired this fall.

Dick, an easy-going Irishman who was a newspaperman until he retired to a Maine farm a few months ago to write books, says most of the rootin', tootin' heroes of the cowboys-and-Indians days would be classed as juvenile delinquents today. He picked Bat Masterson as a subject for research because he was an exception to the rule.

"Masterson wasn't just a homicidal maniac like most of the 'old gunfighters,'" says O'Connor. "He never killed a man except in self-defense or in connection with his duties as a marshal. He was a romantic figure who had many love affairs before he finally married and settled down. He was something of a Beau Brummel of his day—and besides all that he was a newspaperman."

Masterson, a Kansas farm boy who played the various roles of buffalo hunter, Army scout, U. S. marshal and prizefight promoter, put away his guns to become sports editor of the New York Morning Telegraph from 1903 until his death in 1921. He married a dance-hall girl named Emma Walters in 1891, and they lived happily together for almost 30 years.

"Most of the professional gunfighters of the day simply hated women," O'Connor says. "In a later day their prototypes became gangsters and bootleggers. None of them would cause a heart-throb if caught without their guns."

"Modern women who get bored with their white-collar husbands should bear this in mind. The romance of the Old West wasn't half what it was cracked up to be."

Legend Brings Up 3 Names in Television

By CHARLES MERGER
NEW YORK (AP)—There seems to be a legend in television and radio that to get a lively sophisticated conversation on the air, you need Clifford Fadiman, Frank Baxter or Bergen Evans.

Pleasant though the results are, the legend overlooks the fact that for several years now CBA radio has been making an excellent score in the area of lively conversation with the Mitch Miller Show Sunday nights.

Miller puts the theory of will being where you find it into actual practice by interviewing a diverse host of seldom heard people. During a recent Hollywood pilgrimage, for example, he set up a tape machine in the headquarters of the Writers Guild of America, West, and engaged in impromptu colloquy with four of Hollywood's top screen writers.

The four, who will be heard on the Miller show over CBS radio Sunday, are Edmund L. Hartmann, president of the guild; Frank Capra, John Lee Mahoney and Hal Kanter.

Listening to their recorded conversation in advance of the show makes one think that being witty is not a special talent. Rather, it's the result of a general intelligence in life generally and one's own work especially. It can happen to a bricklayer.

Discussing the relative merits of New York and Hollywood, as a stimulating place for a writer to work, Nugent prefers Hollywood.

"Yes," says Kanter. "New York sits with its back to America." Which may help explain the leg and that Kanter once received a screen credit which read "Based on a remark by Hal Kanter."

All agree that Hollywood is a more serious-minded place than it used to be, although Hartmann couldn't resist recalling the incident of the writer who advised a producer to change the period of a script from the present to the past.

What period would you suggest, he asked the producer. "I think around 1912," replied the writer.

"1912?" the producer said. "When was that?"

Turley May Be Biggest Yank Winner in Years

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Turley had to beat himself, you might say, before he could beat American League teams with consistency. Now he has a shot at becoming the New York Yankees' biggest winner since Lefty Gomez, named 26 victories 24 years ago.

The big right-hander, who was a lead off for the Yankees in 1934, licked his wildness with a no-windup style, then gained more control and learned to pace himself by pausing for a couple of deep breaths between pitches.

Now he's won 18, hitting his one-season high with a six-hitter that beat Chicago 6-3 Thursday night and ended the White Sox' winning streak of seven. With 33 games left, Turley could be the first Yankee to win 22 since Gomez, and the first right-hander to do it for the champs since George Piggas in 1928.

Better yet for Turley, he now is 3-0 against the White Sox this season, a point he's always missed at contract time. "I'm particularly happy with this victory," he said, "because when I sit down to talk salary, they always told me I never beat the top teams, like the White Sox." His lifetime record against 'em is 8-11.

While the Yankees regained an 11½-game lead with their fourth victory in 12 games, the Boston Red Sox moved within three games of second place Chicago by beating Cleveland 3-6. Baltimore tied Detroit for fourth by defeating the Tigers 7-6. Kansas City rapped Washington 7-4.

In the National League, Milwaukee defeated Los Angeles 4-0, and the Braves moved 6½ games ahead again. Cincinnati spilled second place San Francisco 2-1. The Chicago Cubs beat third place Pittsburgh 5-3, and St. Louis plunked Philadelphia back into the cellar 2-1.

The Red Sox had 15 hits and 11 walks, but left 16 men on base and didn't put it away until a three-run eighth. Dick Gemert's 17th home run scored a pair in the winning spurt. Every Boston batter had a hit except Ted Williams, who left six runners stranded. Tom Brewer won his eighth, but needed relief in a three-run ninth. Hal Woodeshick (3-4) was the loser for the Indians, who got homers from Vic Power, Vic Wertz and Randy Jackson.

The Tigers, scoring four runs in the fourth with the help of an error, blew a 6-3 lead when Gus Triandis' 24th homer, with two on, capped a four-run Oriole seventh. George Susce was the loser in relief—first first victory since he won his first two major league decisions in September 1956.

Hector Lopez banged a pair of homers and Hal Smith hit a two-run single for the A's, who finished their scoring in four innings. Jack Urban, 5-0 against Washington in his brief career, squared his record at 8-8, but needed relief in the eighth, when Roy Sievers drove in two runs with a single. Vito Valentini lost it.

Denies Move to Dismiss Suit

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A federal judge yesterday denied a motion by George H. Florida of Osceola to dismiss a commissioner's complaint charging him with income tax evasion.

Federal Judge John E. Miller of Fort Smith rejected the move. Florida's case will come before the federal Grand Jury here Sept. 15. He is free on $2,000 bond.

U. S. Commissioner Lee Miles of Little Rock signed a complaint March 13 alleging that Florida evaded payment of $14,055.60 in a joint tax return he filed for himself and his wife for 1951.

Florida and a brother, A. J. Florida, operate the Florida Real Estate Loan Company at Osceola.

After all, it has been hanging around, so to speak, for thousands of years. You might even say the murals in the oldest tombs forecast the shapelessness of things to come.

But not even Egypt has been able to take the sack dress.

A man came into the court the other day, demanding a divorce and custody of a 11-year-old daughter. He said his wife is a bad influence on the child.

The evidence? "She wears these sacks." The case is pending.

The "sack" is the word for religious law in the oldest, Moslem religion in the world. At Ayhan, have been dragged into the argument. They disagree.

Another noted that religious law expressly forbids tight clothing. On that score, he observed sagely, there could be no complaint against the new garment.

Unwittingly the board of examiners at an Egyptian university also collided with the problem. A good case before the board in the process of getting her degree as a doctor of philosophy. She appeared in a sack dress.

Some of the savants had difficulty picturing a Ph.D. in a sack. The young lady argued that the sack is only a throwback to the garb of antiquity and is now wearing for centuries.

She got her degree.

Ex-Polish Sea Captain Sells Ice Cream Now

By MARK SHEEHAN

CLIFTON, N. J. (AP) — Jan Cwiklinski has no regrets. Ten years ago he was captain of the Polish transatlantic liner Batory.

Today he works 16 hours a day in a roadside ice cream stand. "I need a piece of bread," he says, "so I sell ice cream to get it. In Poland, when there is a knock on the door, you don't know if it is the milkman with the milk or the security police coming to take you to jail. Here I am a free man, I work hard, but I sleep."

Nine years ago, when the Batory was docked in New York, Cwiklinski, reportedly American-born, came aboard as a sightseer and stowed away in the laundry.

Hisler was free on bail after his conviction on perjury charges in connection with a passport declaration.

When Hisler presented himself at sea, the captain knew there would be trouble. He had New York and Warsaw as well as the ship's destination, London, informing authorities Hisler was aboard.

The United States wanted Hisler returned, Poland wanted him brought safely to Communist territory. Capt. Cwiklinski turned the matter over to the Polish consul at London.

The consul refused to surrender Hisler, but Scotland Yard men boarded the ship and carried him off.

After that the Batory was barred from ports in the United States.

Capt. Cwiklinski fled the ship in London in 1953. He worked for Radio Free Europe, and wrote a book, "The Captain Leaves His Ship."

He came to the United States in 1954. He saw a newspaper advertisement offering to sell ice cream stand franchises, and he bought one. He had money from the sale of his book and television rights to his story.

He says the work is harder than that of a ship captain, but it pays better too. As captain of the Batory, one of Poland's two transatlantic liners, he was paid only the equivalent of $65 a month.

The 57-year-old captain speaks English well. It is one of seven languages he knows.

The captain has a wife and two children in Poland. His daughter is 22, and attends a university. His son is 12. The Communists once took their house away but returned it.

He communicates with his family indirectly, and rarely, because he is an unpopular man in Poland. His wife is working, and he sends parcels—bolts of cloth and things like that, things she can sell.

Chicken, Beef Featured in Weekend Sales

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Beef, in a variety of forms, and frying chickens are the featured items in many American supermarkets and neighborhood grocery stores this weekend.

Various stores are offering rib roast, top or bottom round roasts, rump roast, chuck steak or roast, rib steak, round steak and assorted other cuts.

The diversity of specials may be because of the high prices and the supermarket meat experts' desire to get some kind of foot into his weekly advertisement.

Fryers and broilers are a familiar item on summer menus, of course. Birds are plentiful now, too.

Another poultry development this week is one chain's offering of turkey parts at prices ranging from 19 cents a pound for necks and backs to 69 cents for breasts.

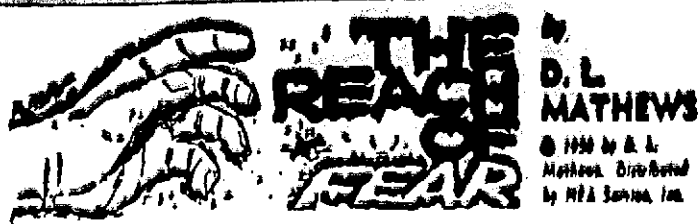

Fresh fruits and vegetables remain plentiful in most areas, especially where produce comes from nearby orchards and fields. Cabbage, squash, peppers, sweet corn, beans, cauliflower, celery, potatoes and onions all are rated as very good buys on the vegetable list. Cauliflower and celery dropped noticeably, while sweet potatoes are considerably

Chapter XXII

Morrison continued reading the advertisement. "They offer prizes for different age groups, an opportunity to hear some of the best musicians, mountain air, mountain lakes and a hundred bucks to boot. Not bad for the winners."

"Very acceptable prizes. I wouldn't mind winning myself."

"About this letter. Did he send it to you?"

"No. I wondered about that, too, but perhaps there was someone else he had more confidence in."

"It isn't dated. I wonder what he meant when he wrote 'tomorrow'?"

"I must have to do with the closing date of the contest."

Morrison looked again. "Here it is. All entries have to be in the mail by midnight Thursday, the fourteenth. That's today. He didn't speak to you about it, you say?"

"Oh yes. We've talked about the contest several times. He showed me a couple of the tunes, he was considering, and told me of the things he would do when he won. It didn't occur to him that he might not win. It was almost a certainty that he wouldn't win, but of course I didn't say so."

"If he didn't mean the letter for you, I wonder just who he did send it to. This looks like it was a first draft, and he didn't bother addressing it."

"Maybe he sent it to his violin teacher. I've heard the man's name, but I don't recall it now."

"We'll find him. The last day Bruce was at school he didn't mention anything about the contest? If he was going to change his mind and have it ready by the deadline, he must have expected to have it back at least by yesterday."

Higbee pondered for a time. "No. No. He didn't. That was a busy day for me and except for a few minutes, I was in my room very little. I didn't have time to speak privately with any of my pupils."

Morrison gathered the papers and put them back in the envelope.

Hal Verhey hadn't been able to sleep after the interview with the police lieutenant, and though he had gone to work today, he might lower and headed for the bargain list.

Peaches and watermelons ones again are the best buy by far among fruit. Cantaloupes are reported a bit higher this week, whereas pears are headed the other way. They're still not in the bargain range in most places, however.

as well have stayed home, for all he accomplished. Every car that pulled up outside his place of business was a potential threat. Every unexpected noise caused him to shy like a frightened horse.

Driving around town had calmed him a little. Everything looked so normal. People hurrying on their way, each wrapped in his own problems, none of them interested in Hal or his problems. Most of the time they didn't know he existed.

He could keep it that way. Hal told himself. People were the same anywhere you went. Unless you called attention to yourself, you could walk among them forever and they would never realize you were there.

By midafternoon he could take no more. He had told the office girl he felt he had a cold coming on, and had left.

He just didn't have the guts to stick it out. He had to run, and somehow he must keep Helen from finding out.

She had always been the stronger. He knew it, but he never let her know he knew it. If she even suspected, she would find some way of stopping him. Maybe she felt it to be her duty, or maybe it stemmed from her love for him, but whatever her reasons, if he gave even a hint of his plan, she would talk him out of it.

Once his decision was made, he drove home. The house was empty. Helen wouldn't be home for at least two hours.

He got a suitcase from the utility room and began to collect the few clothes he dared to take. Even though he was alone, he moved as carefully as a cat stalking its prey.

Socks and shorts were not easily missed from his drawers, but it seemed wisest to take a coat and pair of slacks from the back of the closet. Helen knew how particular he was about his clothes and keep track of them like a hawk. He felt a pang of regret as he thought of leaving her, but he knew she could never understand how he felt.

She couldn't know how high grey walls, solid and impenetrable, could stand there laughing at a man until they routed his very soul. She couldn't know how he still woke from dreams of them, wet with sweat. If he had to go back he would die. Just like a plant shut away from the light, he'd turn white and die.

When he had packed what clothes he dared he took the suitcase out to the garage. Helen never looked in the car trunk, so he was safe in putting it there. While he was looking the trunk, he noticed the boxful of clothing

Victims of Inflation in Line for Relief

By SAM BAWSON
AP Business News Analyst
NEW YORK (AP)—Some 12 million of inflation's worst victims are in line today for a little relief.

If President Eisenhower signs the social security bill into law, the Uncle Sam will hand out about one million dollars more next year to 12 million beneficiaries.

He will collect a little more than one billion dollars additional through higher taxes. Half the increase will be paid by the 75 million whose pay checks are docked for social security taxes, and the other half by their employers.

The increased benefits are designed to make up for some of the ravages of past inflation on the fixed incomes of the retired.

If new inflation pops up, as many in Washington fear, the battle will start all over again.

The big rise in the cost of living since the war has cramped persons beyond their earning years. They have found the next egg they once thought ostrich size has shrunk to pigeon size.

The new benefits and the new taxes will still leave the social security system running at the red, as it started to do for the first time in the past year.

This year it is paying out nearly $4 billion dollars in benefits and it is taking in $7.4 billion dollars in taxes on the employed and their employers. Next year under the new bill payments would rise to $4.4 billion and collections to a bit more than $8 billion.

The system has a large reserve fund on which to draw. But taxes will have to go up steadily from year to year if the higher payments are to be made and the reserve saved from too much drainage. Sponsors of the new bill say it should bring the social security fund into balance within a few more years as the tax rates rise.

Many elderly persons have other forms of income.

There has been a rapid growth in corporate pension funds in recent years. Union pension funds are also a growing part of the economic asset. Annuities and the surpluses of life insurance companies also have other forms of income.

But inflation bites into any of these income sources, and only a few of the retired are in a position to increase their incomes to meet inflation's inroads.

Blossom Has Reputation as a Fighter

By Richard Daw

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—School Supt. Virgil Blossom, the man in the middle in Little Rock's simmering integration crisis, has a reputation as a fighter.

The 51-year-old native Missourian had the reputation long before he became a central figure in the current battle over school integration here.

A newspaper columnist at Fayetteville, Ark., where Blossom was school superintendent before he moved to Little Rock, commented: "When you've struggled with Missouri mud and climate, it puts fight and win in your blood."

Blossom, a hulking six-footer, puts it this way: "I've got a job to do."

Blossom spent his youth in Brookfield, a small central Missouri town where his father ran a construction business and served as the city tax collector.

A tall, robust youth, Blossom participated in all sports and entered Missouri Valley College at Marshall, Mo., on an athletic scholarship. His goals were to teach and be an athletic coach. He achieved both.

His first job out of college was at Fayetteville High School, where he became athletic director and a social science teacher in 1930. Later he became principal and then superintendent. He moved to Little Rock in 1953.

Blossom's colleagues tell the story of a wayward youth who was sent to him after several warnings from teachers failed.

Mr. Blossom just talked to me," the boy later told his classmates. But as he talked I started getting smaller and he started getting bigger. By the time he got through, he was the biggest man I ever saw."

Fayetteville named him its "outstanding young man" in 1939 and presented him with a "distinguished citizen award" in 1953. He was named Little Rock's "man of the year" in 1955.

Blossom is active in civic organizations. He has gathered for charity, and he remembered his army clothes were in it. It had been years since he had been discharged, but for some reason, best known to her, Helen had kept his summer uniform.

He rummaged through the box and found the trousers and shirt. He examined them carefully and sighed with relief. Without the insignia they looked like work clothes. He got his pocketknife and cut the thread holding the brightly colored patches. When they were off he unlocked the trunk and put them alongside the suitcase.

No one would ever connect the man in work clothes with the dapper Hal Verhey.

Back in the kitchen he started some coffee.

Student Pilot Forced to Bail Out
PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—A student jet pilot on his first solo training flight was forced to bail out yesterday when his plane developed mechanical trouble.

The pilot, 1st Lt. George A. Kulak of the Greenville Mississippi Air Force Base, parachuted safely to the ground.

His crippled plane crashed, exploded and burned in a soybean field at Cornerstone, about 21 miles east of here.

Kulak told newsmen that his engine T-33 developed a "heavy tip"—one wing fuel tank operating improperly.

Kulak was flying in a 3-plane formation on a routine training mission from the Greenville base. Air Force authorities said.

Six railway and subway lines use the basement of a large Tokyo department store as a terminal.

He taught a Methodist men's Bible class until shortly after last fall's integration crisis forced him to give up some of his activities because of lack of time.

He also has curtailed his speaking schedule, which at times before the Central High integration crisis had been heavy because of his easy-going, extroverted nature.

He and his wife have two daughters, Belle Sue, 20, and Gail, 17. Gail attended Central High during the tension-packed 1957-58 school year and graduated in June.

Blossom holds degrees from Missouri Valley College, where he took his undergraduate work, and the University of Arkansas, where he earned a master's degree. His son, Walter, awarded him an honorary doctorate in 1957.

U. S. Business Would Trade in Red China

By SAM BAWSON
AP Business News Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Americans who have been watching their export business fall off sharply this year are eyeing hopefully an opening chink in the Iron Curtain.

But it will be two months before they are told what new items they may offer for sale to Russia and its satellites.

Their competitors in Western Europe, Canada and Japan meantime will have a long head start. These nations now are freeing 10 per cent of the products formerly embargoed for sale to Eastern Europe and Red China. The latter will still be off limits to American exporters.

The U. S. Commerce Department doubts if lowering the trade barriers a bit more—as provided in the recent Paris agreement with 14 other nations of the NATO coordinating committee on control of East-West trade—will open up much more of a market for U. S. goods in Eastern Europe.

American trade with Eastern Europe is off this year from last year's 10-year high, and it accounts for only one-half of 1 per cent of total U. S. foreign trade.

Washington holds that what the Communist countries want from us mainly is what we still won't want to sell them, come October. That is, products and commodities which we feel could be used for military purposes.

The U. S. now embargoes 922 items for sale to the Reds. It isn't saying yet how many of these will be freed for trade. It is going to add some items because military advances have brought certain chemicals and electronic products into the strategic category. But America plans to drop more items from the list than it adds.

Strict controls were clamped on East-West trade in 1948 as a cold war measure. Last year there was some relaxation of controls. Figures released this week by Commerce Secretary Weeks show that in the first six months of 1958 licenses to export to the Reds totaled 10 1/2 million dollars. Latest available figures show that imports from Eastern Europe in the first two months of 1958 came to $4 million.

From Poland and Russia we have been getting hams, bacon, feathers, bristles, undressed furs from Czechoslovakia, semiprecious stones, industrial diamonds, beads and glass, from East Germany fertilizers, cameras and artificial fruits and flowers.

We have been selling the Reds coal mine drill rigs, auto parts, textile machinery parts, tobacco, soybean oil, and phenol.

Russia has had its embargoes against us, too. And what it will let its people buy from us is still pretty much a mystery. The Iron Curtain chink isn't very big yet. But in a slow trade year anything looks good to many foreign traders.
